

The Little Book of Common Sense Investing Errata

- p. 15 – The note under Exhibit 2.2, describing the impact of P/E changes, belongs on p. 16 under Exhibit 2.3.
- p. 27 – The return for the Total Market and the S&P 500 were 10.2 percent and 10.4 percent, respectively, as depicted in the chart, not 10.1 percent and 10.3 percent, as the second and third lines on the page state.
- p. 48 – Clifford Asness’s middle initial is S., not A.
- p. 56 – The average 10-year shareholder return for the five fund groups was -0.5 percent, as stated in Exhibit 5.3, not -0.4 percent as the first line in the first full paragraph states.
- p. 108 – In table 10.1, and again in the second line of the page, the profit on the average adviser’s portfolio is written as $188,500. The correct figure is $88,500.
- p. 146 – The Vanguard fund used in the Short-Term Treasury comparison (Exhibit 13.3 and text) is the Short-Term Federal Bond Fund.
- p. 193 – In QED 2, the word “business” is misspelled “businesss.”
- p. 203 – The fifth item on the page reads “Commodity funds? Yes.” It should read “Commodity funds? No.”